Every Year, 40% of the U.S. food supply goes to waste. Confusing food date labels are leading to people throwing out food that is still good to eat or to donate. Join experts in the fields of nutrition, food recovery, and food policy to dispel the confusion surrounding food labels, discuss local and national issues driving food labeling, tips on how to really understand food safety, and what steps can be taken to improve labeling.